

ABSTRACT

[0019] The invention is directed to a novel test preparation for microscopes, particularly fluorescence microscopes, which is characterized in that spectral excitation can be carried out in a freely selectable wavelength range of visible light.